Mrs. Crand,
 your the great est friend I could ever had. Its been a nice having you for a guidance counselor. I've come to you with a lot of my problems and you've solved all of them for me. Thank you Good luck with your future students.
 Love always
 Cheryl Nixon

MRS Crand,
 It was great knowing you and having you as my guidance counselor even though I never really had many problems but anyway it was great just to be able to talk to ya! Good luck in the future and I'll miss ya!
 Love always
 Mully

Mrs. Crand,
 I really enjoyed being able to talk to you when I needed
 and you're a very nice, warm person. I hope I see you in the future.
 Luv,
 Tracy

Mrs. Crand,
 To one of the Nicest people I know! I'd like to thank you for all the help you gave me during these past few years! I hope
 my brother gets to meet you - you're a super person! Good luck &

"The wealthy Kaupin family is in the news again," yells Bud Pollard as he sells his papers on a street corner. The Kaupin triplets, Scott, Lynn, and Jeff, owners of the luxurious U.S.S. Patriot cruise ship, announced they they are offering their ship to the J.F. Kennedy Junior High class of 1980 for their 25th reunion. They have contacted their travel agents, Greg Kula, Sheila Rabb, and Tammy Moore, to let them know that no one will be allowed on the ship except class members.

This is how Captain Jon Edwards put the reunion into the ship's log:

September 1, 2005: The best crew members from the entire line have been assembled on my ship for this special reunion. Chefs Jim Berthold and Barb Stillwell have already started to prepare the first meal.

The passengers, with Kristine Kelliher in the lead, started arriving for the reunion cruise. Lorraine Dupuis, Mary Ann Massey, David Blier and Beth Chapman, the next to arrive, were all very excited.

Since the affair was by invitation only, Mary White and Bob Leduc checked I.D.'s and collected the invitations as the guests entered the ship. They were greeted by cruise directors, Laura Caouette, Jody Pelligrino, and Sue Meyers, who wore name tags printed by Anne Boucher and Lori Macaluso, who also printed the invitations.

Off to the side of the ship, doctors Steve Clark and Jack Blatchford, along with nurses, Debbie Rubacha, Lori Warnock and Chris Gates, were passing out seasickness pills to Coleen O'Grady, Carol Heiser, Tricia Folger and Mary Walsh, who were over by the side of the ship and already sick.

More passengers arrived soon, including Kerri Orfitelli, Randy St. Amant, Linda Pucko and Marty LaPointe.

Various crew members, Diane McCafferty, Ray Pion, Kathy Monty and Andy Langan, showed the people who were boarding to their cabins. Some passengers were directed to the lounge and were surprised to see a band consisting of Matt Surapine, Kathy Kinney, Lisa Kask, Tina Sinacore, and Phil Brown playing there. It was directed by Rodney Bungard. People began to get on to the dance floor. Noreen Klapproth, Ellen Barberie, Chris Clarity, Craig Collins, Scott Russell, and Chris Orifice started to boogie, while Marty Green stood in a corner and combed his hair.

The waitresses, Laurie Barile, Robin Chaput and Sue West, served drinks to Brenda Hoyt and Lisa Corneau. Bartenders Ed Sousa, Tim Fortune, and Randy Daigle were being kept very busy.

Finally, the ship started to pull out. Late as usual, Lori Davenport and Kathy Violette were swimming towards the ship. They were helped on deck by John Pilkington and Rick Bolduc. They got on board just as life station drill was about to begin. I, the Captain, made the announcement that everyone must immediately report with their lifejackets to their assigned life boat stations. Marcy Coolen, Jackie Manizza, Matt Trant, Todd Belanger, Craig Tingley and Lee Gondarowski were completely lost and could not find their stations. Fortunately, Debbie Peel and Diane Pare were able to help the lost souls. Cathy Barcomb and Mark Turgeon were very annoyed by having to put lifejackets over their new clothes. Finally, after much shuffling around, the drill ended.

Jackie Dunagin announced that a backgammon tournament was being run by Pat Donohue in the aft lounge. Sue Gillespie, Scott McCuin, Dan Merrill, Cheryl Hart, Colleen Dolan, and Sean Cartwright rushed to participate in it. As this event was beginning, there was another announcement over the loud speaker that Kathy Clark and Gina Guilmette were giving dance lessons. Showing up for this entertainment were Elaine Kadis, Andrea Latulippe, Allan Leahy, Joella Emonds, Kurt Carpenter and Lisa Raymond. Sandy Blanchette, Shelley Heldreth, Barb Breglia and Jon Robbins stood by and watched.

After the day's activities were over, dinner was being served in the main dining room. The passengers sat at tables set by Carlene Reilly, Lynn DeCaro, Stephanie Wheeler, and Ann Keyes and were served by waiters, John Boozang, Paul Smith, Paul Gendreau, Mark Parent, Gaeton Letorneau and Bob Lawrence. Cocktail waitresses, Wendy Zocco, Gretchen Anderson, Kim Zachary, and Michelle Reilly, were kept busy serving drinks to the guests who were sitting by the pool watching Marcia Dougan, Gary Williams and Chris Demeo who were training for the Olympics by doing laps across the pool. On the other side of the pool, astronauts Mike Baer and Deneen Toman, were having trouble staying afloat. They could float in space but not in the water.

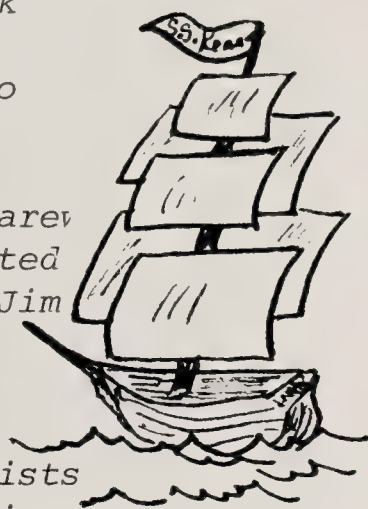

Dinner went well especially with piano player Rob Hudson providing the music. The evening ended nicely except when dishwashers, Karen Bosworth, Kelly Kiernan, and Lisa Clough, broke two hundred dollars worth of dishes. It wasn't all their fault, though the incident happened when Karen Debonis, Roxanne Vujs, and Chris Morris, now pro rollerskaters, came skating through the kitchen doors and into the dishwashers. Maids, Sue Jordan Karen Belisel, Kelly Brow, and Ann Breslin, picked up the mess while Bruce Myers Kevin DeFord, Kermy Gill, and Tim Kissell tried to pick up girls in the hall. The boys all suffered minor injuries such as pocketbook wounds, fingernail marks, and lip gloss across the face but were quickly aided by Sue Linehan, Cheryl French, and Julie Hodgdon who helped them down the stairs.

We finally arrived at the first island. Taxi drivers, John Carev, Dana Dolloff, Charlie Bosco, Karen Choiniere and Tammy Bushey waited to greet their old friends and take them to their destinations. Jim Couture, with two of his old friends, Steve Olechnicki and John Neves, couldn't wait to get off of the boat to have fun.

On the other side of town, a large explosion was heard. Chemists Karen Houlroyd, Kevin Meunier, and Kevin Holmes blew up the building that they worked in. Karen had mixed the wrong chemicals and the other two turned up the gas too high on their latest "experiment."

Everyone was amazed by all of the vendors along the streets. On one corner, the two members of the John Luman and Chris Peuker Sunglasses Corp, were selling sunglasses - dark, light, pink, purple, and even polk-a-dotted ones which had gained world recognition for Chris. On the other side of the street, trying to compete with each other, vendors Lee Clavette, Marty Legault, Peter Gauthier, and Mark Janes were selling umbrellas. Kim Peterson, Valerie Belhumeur, and Marie Walker were selling their artistic drawings in the parking lot. Denise Foraker, Kim Miles and Glenn Lastes, now Bazooka representatives, were passing out gum to people on the streets, trying to promote their product, while dentists Carolyn Cherpack and Julie Martocchio went around taking the gum away as they told everyone it was bad for their teeth.

Well, the fun filled day was over and it was time to get back on the ship. In the lead were Debbie Clawson, now proud owner of a peacock farm, Robert Giguere, tube socks salesman, and Marion Lipinski, an Avon executive.

All of the people were boarded, and once again we were off. Passing around Bibles were Fathers Phil Milwaka, Chris Smith and Jeff Tingey. Sisters Lynne Clark, Amy Vitkuaskus, Tammy Treglia, and Brenda Schott, passed out rosary beads to those who wanted them.

Pat Javorski, Jody Ouellette, Billy Frederick, and Eric Oliver were giving tennis and golf instruction while Laurie Martin demonstrated gymnastics. Aileen Cross was unable to participate in any of these activities because of an injured arm. Jim Deragon, now a pool hustler, won Karie McGuire's bankbook, Rick Dombek's house and car, and Denise Mooney's diamond ring. He also won a partnership in Ed Spazzarini's construction company.

On the way to the next island, we had to pass through the Bermuda Triangle. Nothing happened on the way there, but on the way back there was big trouble. As we entered the Triangle, our radio went out. James Goodwin, "The Mechanic," said that it was only a short curcuit and he'd fix it right away. But then the engine went dead and all of the power failed. Lori Bedard, Tammy Butcher and Cheryl Nixon knew the ship was in the Bermuda Triangle and started a panic. Chris Lecuivre, Sharon Zanoni, Marci Shaefer, and Lisa Lemieux tried to jump over-board but were saved by Brian Donnelly, Neil Beaulieu, Paul Czarnicki and Ken Prior. John Burnham and Ed Bemis, the engineers, tried desperately to fix the ship, but they couldn't get a spark out of the engine. The ship, by some mysterious force, slowly floated toward the center of the Triangle. An island appeared on the horizon, and the ship was being drawn directly toward it. The ship went aground on the island.

There was an old Victorian mansion on the island but nothing else. Suddenly, the door swung open; out came Dan Gainey and his assistants, Linda Maier, Tim McGlew and Julie Mager, all jumping up and down and laughing cynically. "I told you it would work," yelled Dan. They laughed at me but I'll have the last laugh!"

It seemed that Dan had worked for the government on a power ray but had gone mad. He was mad at everyone on the ship because he hadn't received an invitation, but it turned out that he had killed the postman, Peter Gogus, who had tried to deliver it. Pat Kuzmickus, now the owner of Tonka Toys, Inc., offered him a lifetime supply of Tonka trucks, but he refused. Finally, Maureen Haley became bored of being held hostage and jumped Dan and his assistants. We made him reverse the power ray and let us leave.

There was a big party the last night on board. Karen Raynor, Cheryl Holeman and Loretta Maticke put up the decorations which they had spent most of the trip planning and making.

The tables were set with the best china and gold flatware by Stephanie Yavorasky, Glenda Gottlieb, Brenda Laferriere, and Kathy Matheson. There were plenty of hors d'ouvres made by Patricia Nadeau and Ramona Nitch. The attire varied greatly. Cindy Chartier, Kristen Holtz and Sue Pelligrinelli came in jeans while Laura Jouzaitis, Anne Zarcaro, and Laura Chamberlain came in evening gowns. Rich Ashley came as a fuzzy rabbit, Michelle Jacques as a bum and Steph Wheeler as a ghost. When asked why, they replied, "Sue Bugai said it was a costume party." Talk about gullible!

The next morning was spent looking at the yearbook and going over superlatives, teachers, autographs and exchanging addresses.

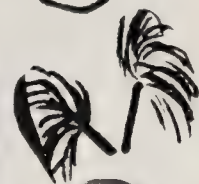

At two o'clock the ship pulled back into port. The passengers said final goodbyes and left. The cleanup crew found some strange things going on. Laura Plourde had an awful time waking Kyle Sidway up when she was cleaning his room because he still had visible affects of last night's champagne. Tammy Butcher caught Karen Murphy and Cindy Beeler, who shared a room, in the act of taking some "souvenirs". One was taking towels and the other was taking wash cloths.

Barb Doucette was going to the bar to clean it up when she caught Marie Plander "borrowing" a dozen shot glasses, a dozen champagne glasses and a soda-water bottle, all which bore the U.S. Patriot emblem. Luckily, she stopped her before she put the objects into a large suitcase filled with newspaper. Barb then heard faint mumblings behind the bar. She went back there and discovered Theresa Montminy for whom last night's party had apparently never ended. Stephanie Keely was one of the last on board. She was doing the final cleaning up.

A good time was had by all and everyone on board was glad to be back on United States Soil.

LAST WILL...

We, Sue Linehan, Lori Martin, Kathy Downs, and Michelle Jacques, leave Mr. Citron a book, How to Match Your clothes.

I, Patti Kuzmickas, leave Mr. LaBreck the pieces of graduated cylinders and test tubes that I wasn't suppose to but did break, and a set of gremlins to run his T.V. and recite his favorite words, "I don't know".

Miss MacArthur would like to leave to Chris Varnet, Bill Villani and Tim Vaillancourt a waste basket full of tiny pieces of paper with which to play their morning game.

We, Kerri Orfitelli and Carlene Riley, leave Mr. Girard the "Matchmaker Award" for all the wonderful matchmaking he has done for us throughout the year.

I, Chris English, leave Mrs. Trainor a pad and pencil to write my name over and over again so she will stop calling me by my brother's name.

We, Kevin Meunier, Steve Clark, Lori Macaluso, Loretta Maticke, Gaeton Letourneau, and Jimmy Weidl, leave Mr. Krautcuk with the memory of our well behaved class and hope he will use us an example for his future classes.

We, Linda Maier and Sue Read, leave Mr. Sunter a Steve Martin Album for a "Wild and Crazy Guy".

We, Marcia Dougan, Patti Kuzmickas, and Gerri Pehl, leave Mr. Cove a book of theorems and postulates that we made up. They were completely logical but we could never use them.

We, Karen Avery, Brenda Bartlett, Barbara Breglia, and Debbie Rubacha, leave Philip Mawaka and John Luman the seats in lunch they wanted so badly.

I, Jodi Ouellette, leave Miss Skirvan all of the notes I wrote while she thought I was reading.

We, Gary Williams, Tom Cwikla, Mike Naylor and Matt Surapine leave Mr. Sweet the following groups: The Rolling Stones, The Beatles, Jefferson Airplane, The Grateful Dead, and the Doors. With this we hope he will discard Poco.

I, Miss Davis, leave Kyle Sidway a whistle so he can communicate with the birds better.

I, Debbie Rubacha, finally leave Mr. Cove for good.

I, Laura Plourde, leave Mr. Connors a new set of books in hopes that his next class will read them.

We, Kristine Keleher, Darlene Celino, and Tammy Treglia, return our "Bad Attitudes" to Mr. Demers so that he can use them on other good students who were as underserving of them as we were.

We, Laura Plourde and Lisa Raymond, leave Mr. Cowles a peace pipe to smoke with his American Indian classes in hopes that there will be peace!

We, Alicia O'Connor and Sue Drummery, leave Mr. Fenton a batch of new passes for all of the times he didn't have any and we had to make our own.

I, Terry Regan leave Mrs. Spink all of my math problems and I had plenty!.

We, Glenda Gottlieb and Pat Javorski, leave our biology teacher, Mr. Demers, a hearing aide for all of the times that we lost our voices trying to get his attention.

We, Caroline Thompson and Barb Doucette, leave to Mr. Bourassa, one round house and a Cumberland Farms.

We, Jackie Shick and Sue Linehan, leave Mr. Wood a special "Thanks" for helping us get through the 8th grade.

We, MaryBeth Walsh and Kathy Mathewson, finally leave the school. Yeah!!

We, the ninth graders of 1980, leave the future classes in hopes that they will change the directions in the hub.

I, Amy Morneault, leave Mr. LaBreck a white cap and apron so he can audition for the part of the "Pillsbury Dough Boy".

We, Mrs. Dumais' yearbook class, leave her a lottery ticket in hopes that she will win so she can buy a pair of shoes instead of a shoe and a slipper.

I, Denise Mooney, leave Patrice McKiernan, Karen Swanson, Jule O'Mara, and Chris Warner the phrases, "To Be Real", "Get a Grip", and "Hey, Dude".

We, Lori Martin, Chris Morris, Laura Plourde, Lisa Raymond, Theresa Meunier, and Jackie and Jeanna Mittica, leave the school a gourmet cook in hopes that the lunches will be better.

Miss MacArthur leaves Marty Green an alarm clock so Jim Weidl can get to school on time.

Mr. Hoza is left a 500 piece jigsaw puzzle which when put together will be a solid white, 18" by 24" rectangle. It may be easier to put together than some of his others.

I, Jackie Schick, leave this school with some of my most fondest memories of the super-great times I had, and the truly beautiful people with whom I shared them.

We, Tammy Treglia and Colleen O'Grady, leave to Mr. Askin all of the excitement and enthusiasm that we never showed in his class.

We, the varsity field hockey team, leave next year's varsity 10 minutes less of practice so they can get the hot water that we never got to use.

I, Andrea Latu'ippe, leave Mr. Sweet the book which he definitely can use, Learning to Sing with Little Effort.

We, Sue Bugai and Sue Pelligrinelli, would like to leave Miss Nealon a pair of bloomers which fit but we couldn't find any.

We, Terry Regan and Chris Gates, leave Mrs. Ferrante a whole book of sums and a book on language.

We, Steve Clark, Paul Smith, Rick Bolduc and Bill Sizemore, leave Mr. Cove a hearing aide in hopes that he will catch the future ninth graders fooling around in the back of the room.

I, Sue Linehan, leave Janice Maznicki the chairmanship of the Itty Bitty Committee and hope she will carry on the tradition.

We, Laura Caouette and Jody Pelligrino, leave Mr. Plamondon a bag of lollipops for all of the ones he ate on Mr. Elliott.

I, Lynn DeCaro, leave Mrs. Ivanisin the names "Princess" and "Little One" in hopes that she will find some deserving 8th grader to give them to.

We, Mr. Demer's Science Aides, leave him a pack of batteries in hopes the clock in his office will run on time.

We, Mr. Sweet's 6th period class, leave him because we have places to go, people to see, and things to do.

I, Marty Green, leave the book I Love Myself to Doug Ciemniewski in hopes that he will carry on the tradition.

I, Kathy Violette, leave Mr. Breither with the satisfaction that he still doesn't know who wrote those notes.

I, Barbara Breglia, leave Mr. Ferguson the words, "It was Karen" because it always was.

We, Gerri Pehl and Pattie Kuzmickas, leave Mr. Haley, our home room teacher, a tape recording of the Pledge of Allegiance that can be played in high volume (not that we expect him to be satisfied).

We, Sue Linehan, Lori Martin, Kathy Downs and Michele Jacques, leave Mr. Citron a tank full of fish so he can leave the ones in 16W alone!!

I, Pat Javorski, leave Mr. Demers his red pen that I dropped in his sink during class.

We, Amy Vitkauskas and Tammy Treglia, leave Mr. Plamondon some encouragement that maybe someday he'll have a whole class which will take gym all at once.

We, Andrea Latulippe, Sue Linehan and Kerri Orfitelli, leave Mr. Bell all of our excuses for not helping him in his office.

We, Debbie Rubacha and Karen Avery, leave Mr. Elliott a razor and shaving cream

I, Jodi Ouellette, leave Miss Nealon the name "Keg" in hopes that she'll have as much fun embarrassing next year's varsity goalie at the awards' assembly as she did before.

We, Sue Bodardus, Lynne Clark, Diane Pare, Elaine Kadis, Debbie Peel, Lori Bedard, and Lisa Kask, leave next year's ski club 10 blizzard coupons redeemable at anytime.

The foreign language department is left "The Bee" for Mrs. Ward's terrific selection of assembly programs.

I, Cindy Beeler, leave Mrs. Wojciehowski a Southern accent.

I, Scott Kaupin, leave Miss Kennedy all of her day old newspapers.

We, Bill Villani, Jim Weidl, and the fifth period class, leave Mr. Bojarski an electronic football game.

We, Dianne Pare', Lynne Clark, and Debbie Peel, leave Mr. Pastore a rag to clean next year's "scuffs".

We, Miss Lauria's old 7th and 8th grade team, leave her five extra guys in the hall.

We, Lori Bedard and Sue Bugai, leave Mr. Andy a megaphone so he can scream even louder.

We, Sue Linehan and Jodi Ouellette, leave Mr. Stoll a box full of juicy notes that he can read in front of the class.

We the ninth graders leave all 8th graders good luck in Mr. Milroy's class. You're "gonna" need it!

We, Steve Clark, John Boozang, and Mark Turgeon, leave Miss Ryba permanent desks and chairs out in the hall for her future students who will find themselves getting lectured out there.

I, Karen Houlroyd, leave to next year's ninth graders the incentive to carry on my tradition and find as many ways as humanly possible to beat the system.

I, Bob Sylvester, leave my gymsuit to Mrs. Ivanisin so she can take gym.

We, Sue Myers and Tina Sinacore, leave Mr. Fenton, Mr. Hoza, Mrs. Hargraves and Mr. Bucalo that special day full of favorable memories that "We'll never forget!"

I, Brenda Hoyt, leave to Mr. Paluck a big "thank you" in hopes he will always be understanding.

I, Lori Warnock, leave all of the teachers who lean up against the walls a life-size stand-in so that they can have a rest when they are "keeping the walls from falling over."

We, Karen Avery and Terry Majowitz, leave Ms. Stillo a collection of igneous, metamorphic, and sedimentary rocks.

I, Pam Cenate, leave Mr. Girard the orange from Florida that he never got.

We, Laurie Barile, Anne Zarcaro, Amy Morneault, Lynne Kaupin, and Julie Mager, leave our group "The Wad Squad" to all you future wads.

We, Kathy Kinney and Marcia Dougan, leave Mr. Ferguson with the reminder that Red House is still standing despite our efforts in I.P. S. to the contrary.

We, Miss Lauria's 78-79 team, leave her still wondering who signed her up for the "Kristy McNichol Fan Club".

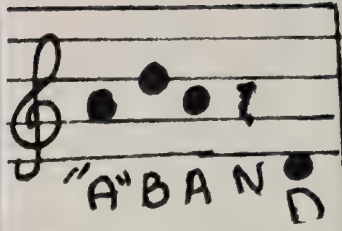

We, the ninth graders in the Cast of "Feathertop", leave Mr. Fenton all the headaches that we gave him.

I, Kim Petersen, leave Mr. "B" a new pass in hopes that he will have mercy on future students and use it in years to come.

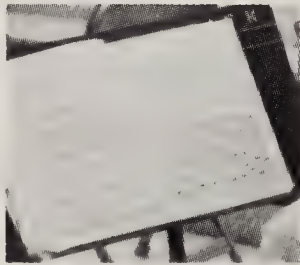

We, the band members, leave Mr. Climan a very large sum of money so that when the faculty has another diet contest he can pay his weekly dues.

I, Tracey MacDonald, leave Mrs. Stevens with my little sister to do all her secretarial work.

We, Lori Martin and Loretta Maticke, leave Mr. LaBreck a two week art course in hopes that someday his classes will be able to figure out what it is on the board that he is attempting to draw

Mrs. Cland, you've really been alot of help to me and I hope that some other girl like me is as lucky as I have been when I came to this school I was scared but you made it much easier for me. You've helped me with Mrs. Caban and that I am most grateful. I don't know what I can say but thank you very very much.
 Lots of Love,

Grand
It's been a at 3 years thank you. You've helped me a lot and thank you!
You've helped me get through use years and made me realize I'm a better person than I thought

Love
Di

Ms. Crand,
you are a wonderful lady with a great personality. Have a great summer!
